

CHRIST THE KING SIXTH FORMS

As good as the Bank of England

In conjunction with The Economist's Education Foundation and the Bank of England, a series of topics that can be adapted for home learning experience or online class room teaching. Different modules are available that introduces young people (from 5 to 11) to how money and the economy works, the robot revolution and gender pay gap. Post-16 subject resources to help students learn about macroeconomics, explaining how the economy works and what the Bank of England does. These excellence education resources, tailored for students of different ages, provide a greater economic awareness and financial understanding for key stage 2, 3 and linked to GCSE and A Level syllabus.

<https://www.bankofengland.co.uk/education/education-resources>

Sign up for the free weekly e-mail news resource from The Economist designed for learners aged 9-14. A range of activities help them tackle the big stories in depth and think critically in an age of fake news.

<https://economistfoundation.org/resources/>